

Business Professionals Organization

for University of Arizona Alumni
(UA-BPO)

Mission:

To bring University of Arizona alumni together by promoting professional and personal development, mentorship, and community/public service.

Why UA-BPO?

UA-BPO seeks a diverse membership base and is open to all University of Arizona alumni. The goals are to bring UA alumni together by promoting:

- Professional/Personal Development: As a professional organization, members gain tips and tools to assist with professional development, including panel series, workshops, and seminars.
- Mentorship/Wildcat For Life: Members are given an opportunity to develop relationships with and among program participants while building relationships with local organizations and corporations. This provides members with a platform to work with those already well-established in their field while fostering skill set growth. This individualized educational process provides an informal exchange of ideas and advice that's proven to fast-track success. Many mentoring relationships also turn into friendships that last a lifetime.
- Community/Public Service: Volunteering time as a professional UA-BPO member is a great way to help raise wildcat spirit in the community. UA-BPO works actively with professional organizations in an effort to broaden community service. By building communities through volunteerism, members help maintain a greater community for everyone.

Membership Benefits:

Create new business contact and build solid relationships with key referrals sources within the community.

Collaborate, share strategies, and brainstorm new ideas with other members to set and achieve personal and professional goals.

Share marketing techniques that will help grow your business faster and easier.
